

Associate Clinical Professor of Medicine
Endocrinology, Diabetes and Metabolism Fellowship, Program Director
Director, Diversity on Graduate Medical Education
Director, Health Equity Fellowship
University Of Arizona College of Medicine-Phoenix, Creighton School of Medicine and Phoenix VAMC

Ricardo Correa, MD, EdD, FACE, FACP, FACMQ, is an Associate Professor of Medicine, the Program Director for Endocrinology, diabetes and metabolism fellowship and the director for diversity in Graduate Medical Education at the University of Arizona College of Medicine, Staff Clinician and Researcher at Phoenix VAMC and Faculty at Mayo School of Medicine, Mayo Clinic-Arizona.

Dr. Correa has more than 75 peer reviewed articles. He is a member of multiple editorial boards and works as associate editor for several prestigious journals. He is board-certified in Medical Quality. He is the author of the book title "Case report: basics and publication." and senior Co-Editor of the book "Endocrinology of Aging." His research focuses on neuroendocrinology, mainly on pituitary and adrenal tumor and health care disparities in diabetes in Latinx populations.

Ricardo is an alumnus of EFF. When he was a fellow at the NIH, he participated in many EFF educational and research activities. He also helped coordinating the preceptorship program at the NIH.

He enjoys playing the saxophone, hiking in the Phoenix mountains with the family, and traveling to other countries to learn about the different cultures.